

NADIA N. SUBARAN

Nadia N. Subaran is the owner of Aidan Design, a kitchen design firm dedicated to creating unique and personal spaces. After receiving her degree in architecture from The Cooper Union in New York City, Nadia got her feet wet in the custom remodeling and building business as a Project Manager. But designing was never far from her heart so 12 years ago she turned her knowledge and talent exclusively towards designing kitchens.

Nadia describes herself as a visual person. "Most of my clients have a difficult time imagining how their space will be transformed. It's my job to lead and guide them through the process, to help them see and, more importantly, to feel inspired," Nadia says. Collaborating with her staff, the builder, other design professionals and her clients ensures that each detail of the design gets realized. Nadia's client's wants, needs and participation are crucial. "I want my clients to own their space—to love it for themselves and their lifestyle. That is what makes a project successful in the end."

Aidan Design has a few new things on the horizon for this fall. They will be launching their own custom line of "green" cabinetry made from bamboo and showing more in LED and fluorescent lighting in the showroom. "Environmental consciousness is now more important than ever—its urgency and relevance are affecting our industry and every aspect our lives."
